Flagged Posts Per Report

This graph shows this person's flag count in relation to other people screened from your organization. While a higher count might indicate poor judgment about what is publicly appropriate to share on social media platforms and can pose potential reputation risk, it does not imply a lack of skill, competence, intent, or automatic disqualification. This data point should be use in conjunction with the detailed misconduct report and consider context, severity, recency, and relevance to your company's screening criteria.

Trends in misconduct are for candidates screened in last 365 days

Analytics are impacted by different Behavior Kits and lookback periods. Posts may be flagged more than once for different types of misconduct. Analytics quantify the frequency of adverse flags, not the severity.

Misconduct Flag Count

Each dot represents a person screened and the total number of adverse flags in the report. For example, a person with a total of 12 adverse flags shows on the graph indicated by the red line.

Percentile

Compares the person to all of your organization's screenings within the last 365 days. For example, a person in the 10th percentile has a number of adverse flags that is greater than or equal to 10% of the people screened in your organization.

People Screened

Shows the number and percent of your organization's candidates who have more and fewer adverse flags than the candidate currently in review.
